

LITERARY NOTES.

Mr. Wills is said to have closely followed Cervantes's story in his adaptation of "Don Quixote"; but he has introduced several new features and has considerably elaborated the part to be played by Miss Ellen Terry.

M. Georges Ohnet's new novel, "Volonte," has reached in Paris in one week its seventy-third edition. One English critic calls this popular work "A monument of stupendous platitude, an anthology of impudent commonplace and prodigious snobishness."

M. Coquelin's article on Acting and Actors in the forthcoming number of "Harper's" is to be illustrated with fifteen reproductions of paintings by Bonnat, Delaunay and Vlaminck, and drawings by Paul Renouard and Eugene Lame.

John Boyle O'Reilly's book on "The Ethics of Boxing" is on the Ticknor list for immediate publication.

The Ashburnham MSS. will return to France. M. Leopold Delisle, director of the Paris National Library, has arranged with Mr. Trubner, the London publisher, to regain possession of 166 manuscripts of the Libri and Barrois collections in Lord Ashburnham's library. Mr. Trubner receives 150,000 francs and Manees's collection of early German poems—a book formerly preserved at Heidelberg, but taken away by the French, and placed in 1858 in the King's Library. Mr. Trubner intends to place this work in a German public library, and he proposed this arrangement to M. Delisle last autumn. The book ceded by the Paris Library has a special interest for France, and the Grand Duke of Baden has presented to the library a photographic facsimile of it, which for scholars is equivalent to the original. The 166 manuscripts will be restored to the documents from which they were clandestinely detached.

The second volume of Thomas Stevens's "Around the World on a Bicycle" is coming from the Scribner's press.

In the April "Century" Mr. Kennan will publish the last of the papers designed to introduce his description of the exile system in Siberia. The May number will contain the first of his Siberian papers illustrated by Mr. G. A. Frost.

The London Shelley Society promised its members sixteen books last year and supplied only six. It is said that its performance of "Hellas" caused it much financial embarrassment.

New editions of the books of the late D. R. Locke (Petroleum V. Nasby) are announced by Lee & Shepard.
